This information may also be disclosed to the Home Office if it is necessary for the checks to be undertaken via the Home Office landlords checking service.

The Landlord is obliged to make the Tenant aware that as with any residential property, if water is allowed to stagnate within the hot or cold water systems (ie loft cold water tank, shower units, water filters or similar etc), there is a risk of Legionella. To reduce this risk, the Tenant is responsible for taking some simple control measures including regularly cleaning and disinfecting any shower head/s in the property and where the property has been vacant for more than a week, outlets from any hot or cold water supply should be 'turned on and allowed to flow' to minimise the stagnation. The Tenant must also report if the hot water is not heating properly or if there are any other problems with the water system, so that a repair can be actioned. As with any residential property, an occupant must only drink water from a mains fed cold water tap ie to only drink from the kitchen tap and not from bathroom taps.

7.10 Immigration Act 2014 – Right to Rent

The Landlord or the Landlord's Agent on behalf of the Landlord, is required by law to carry out checks on the prospective Tenants and all permitted occupiers aged 18 or over to ensure that they have the right to rent property in England.

This Tenancy Agreement is conditional upon the satisfactory outcome of Right to Rent checks. If these checks have not been completed at the time this Tenancy Agreement is signed, and they subsequently show that the Tenant or any member of the Tenant's household does not have the right to rent, then this Tenancy Agreement will not take effect.

In the event that the Tenancy Agreement does not go ahead as a result of unsatisfactory right to rent checks, the Landlord or the Landlord's Agent acting on behalf of the Landlord, will be entitled to compensation limited to the value one month's rent plus any reasonable expenses incurred for example (but not limited to) reference checks and other administration expenses.
